Bay St. Louis ends year with lower taxes and utility rates

BY TRACI BONNEY
For the Bay St. Louis mayor who's also a CPA, 1992 has been a dream year in some respects. Mayor Eddie Favre and the City Council approved a tax reduction earlier this year that lopped 85 percent off residents' municipal rates.
"I would say that without a doubt, this unprecedented city tax reduction was our greatest accomplishment in 1992," Favre said with a grin.
The city also approved a utility rate reduction in 1992 (the third reduction during the current administration), and issued some $19 million in building permits (including permits to Casino Magic).
Bay St. Louis saw during this year the successful completion of its effort to annex the Bay Cove/Cedar Point area, which led to the planning of a sewer line extension into the annexed area and a previously annexed part of the city.

A number of utility and gas lines have been replaced or renovated in the city, and a complete gas meter change-out program was implemented. In addition, Bay St. Louis's city-wide paving program is about two-thirds complete, Favre said.
Other highlights of 1992 for the city include the increase of police and fire protection staff and capabilities; the provision of limited public transportation through an agreement with Coast Transit Authority, and plans to expand that transportation through the purchase of a shuttle bus and a trolley; the receipt of grant funds for downtown development projects and restoration of the railroad depot grounds once the purchase of the depot is complete; the recently completed purchase of the new city hall annex on Court Street; and a recent drug bust, conducted in cooperation with other local law enforcement agencies through the Metro Narcotics Task Force, that resulted in the arrests of 29 suspected drug dealers.

Favre stated, "I think 1992 was a very positive year for Bay St. Louis. There was a lot of progress, a lot of enthusiasm from the residents and the business community as we started on various projects."
However, Favre acknowledged that the year had its dark side.
"The brutal murder of Cindy Acker, that had to be the absolute low point of the year," he commented.

Aldermen list New Year wishes

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Maintenance, additions and far-reaching plans for new pathways to Waveland shores are a few of the projects aldermen would like to address in the coming year.
Ward 3 alderman Curtis P. "Phil" Colson said, "To begin with, I would like to see the dedication of a plan for the systematic accomplishment of improved drainage."
"Being a person who likes organization, I feel a specific plan would show a progression in work. We could see what has been accomplished and what remains to be finished."

He added a similar wish would be for the creation of a city roads plan, as many streets are in need of repair and/or repaving.
Again, he stressed his belief that a planned approach would permit the city to set priorities along with future projects.
Colson commented, "I would also like to see the city work towards bringing in new businesses."

"After all, for my wishes concerning drainage and streets to come true, the city will need the revenues of additional businesses."
"There is another thing," Colson continued, "that I believe would benefit both Waveland and Bay St. Louis."
"In the past there was talk of building a bridge between Bay St. Louis and Diamondhead."
"I would like to see a tri-entity committee formed for the purpose of planning just such a link, forming a loop with I-10, Hwy. 603 and U.S. 90.

"This I feel would bring many more people to the area, encourage business development and increase revenues."
"We need the support of our national legislators who must seek federal funds for us."
"With the attitude of the incoming administration tow-

Waste committee proposal on hold

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
A proposal by Compton Engineering to formulate a solid waste reduction plan committee was placed on hold Monday by county supervisors until participation by local cities is confirmed.
Board attorney Gerald Gex added, passage of an inter-local agreement between Waveland and Bay St. Louis remains incomplete.
According to state Senator-elect Bill Johnson, a consultant with Compton's group, the formation of a three-member committee to administer the plan is the next suggested step of the overall plan.

Johnson requested which, if any, services the board would require from Compton concerning presentation and consultation assistance in formulation of the committee.
A December 12 proposal listing charges for such services included: $66 per hour for principal engineer, estimated 16 hours; $58 per hour for engineer I, estimated 16 hours; $45 per hour for engineer II, estimated 30 hours; $35 per hour for technician I, estimated 6 hours; and $18 per hour for clerical, estimated 4 hours.

Though the proposal for the formulation of an administrative committee is included in the overall plan, Johnson clarified, costs for documentation, presentation and consultation services for committee formation would be additional.
Suggested costs by Compton for additional services related to committee formation totaled $3,600.

Johnson added, the board is at liberty to pick and choose which services would be needed.
District 3 Supervisor Howard Lizana stated the board only needs the specifications as they should be able to make the presentations themselves.
Gex reported state Rep. J.P. Compretta's proposed amendment of Senate Bill 2562 (wastewater disposal) would be

Need a ride?

Local cab company offers free New Year's transportation

For those who have had too much holiday cheer, or whose vehicle has broken down from too much holiday road-running, or even those who have no vehicle in which to run the roads, there is help tonight.

Recently licensed cab operators Louis and Mertie Hearty are working in conjunction with all three local law enforcement agencies to offer taxi rides to anyone in need of transportation to their homes from New Year's Eve festivities. Their free cab service will start in the evening today and will continue until 7 a.m. New Year's Day.

"The only stipulations are that they really need a ride and that they go home," Mrs. Hearty said. "We're not going to take anyone bar-hopping or from party to party."

Those who may need the Hearty's assistance for transportation tonight, may call them at 467-1260, or call the Sheriff's Department, Bay St. Louis or Waveland police departments.

1992 UFO naut Report

NASA scientists pointed giant radio telescopes toward the densest part of our Milky Way on October 12, 1992. Object: to make contact with intelligent life elsewhere in the universe.

In two days, Space mariners from constellation Zeta were overheard filing the following report to their home base:

"As we beam this report ahead of us, we are happy to be streaking for home, since we have not found intelligent life in this planetary system.

"One planet here is of ideal size and is placed at a perfect distance from its star. Unfortunately, despite its incredible beauty, we found no intelligent life on it.

"The inhabitants of the planet call it earth, although 72 percent of it is covered by water. Much of its land is extremely fertile and capable of feeding all the earthlings.

"Yet, over half of them go hungry much of the time and many starve outright amid the surplus of others. No, there is no intelligent life there.

"We have observed the earthlings for years now, and we can only say that we consider them dangerous. Though their feeble radar, rockets and explosives did not pose a serious threat to us, their vicious attitude kept us at bay.

"Can you believe that, while half of them go hungry, they still spend a million dollars a minute to arm themselves? No, there is no intelligent life there.

"Earthlings are definitely higher animals which have reached a plateau of mental mechanics such as speaking, writing, reading, even pursuing studies in regimented places called 'universities.' However, there is but negligible evidence that they use cause and effect rationally. No, there is no intelligent life among them.

"A well documented case of their viciousness and lack of intelligence is the aerial view of a region called Vietnam: 25 million bomb craters! Whatever the dispute, there must have been a better way. No, there is no intelligence there.

"No report of this length can begin to cover the foolishness, violence and atrocities which earthlings continuously inflict on one another. Before Vietnam came Korea, and prior to that were two devastating planet-wide wars. Even now, there are conflicts all around the planet.

"Earthling records from the second planet-wide war show that an Aryan racist attempted to wipe out a strain called Jews, and that he succeeded in liquidating over 6 million.

"The fact that nothing was learned from this, that terrorism stalks Planet Earth more than ever and that various forms of racism plague many areas proves there is no intelligence.

"Numerous earthlings, who claim to be above racism and violence, casually butcher their own fetuses for flimsy reasons, justifying their senseless brutality by the assertion that fetuses are not legally persons. No, they show no signs of intelligent life.

"One of their hallmarks is a penchant for running games on each other. In this practice they have sunk lower than all other organized animals. Spouse-swapping, animalistic orgies, flight from reality through alcohol abuse or through drug parties were dangerous pills are swapped indicate insanity.

"This concludes our report. We are glad to be leaving."

City Council okays annex phone system

BY TRACI BONNEY
During a brief recess meeting Tuesday, the Bay St. Louis City Council accepted a bid for a new telephone system and approved several travel requests.

The phone system will be installed in the new city hall annex on Court Street. Connections Plus of Jackson won the contract with a bid of $16,047.

City purchasing agent Gordon Boh explained that although that bid was not the lowest received, it was the best, based on his research, the specifications made in the bid advertisement and state law concerning such contracts.

The new system includes several functions that will increase communications efficiency among city personnel and between city staff members and those who call city hall.

The travel requests that were approved included trips for two public works department personnel to two seminars, and a trip to Las Vegas for Police Chief Frank McNeil and Detective Tom Burleson, to attend a gambling investigation seminar.

The Council approved the phone system bid and the travel requests 3-0 (Jim Rutherford and Charles Scianna were absent), and also unanimously approved a motion to change the first January 1993 meeting from Tuesday, Jan. 5, to Thursday, Jan. 7, to accommodate setting of docket-related matters.

ards job creation through infrastructure development, this may be the ideal time to put forth a bill for just such a link."

Colson said, increase in access to the area should increase traffic, which in turn, would increase interest in development.

Though Colson claimed drainage and roads to be his primary New Year's wish, the generation of revenues to support improvements and proper maintenance remain a dire consideration.

Ward 2 Alderman Bob Hubbard interjected his wants for the city.

"I would like to see an extension to the Garfield Ladner pier," he proclaimed.

"The pier was originally planned in six phases; so far only one has been completed."

Hubbard said funds for the extension work should be sought by the city in the form of grants.

Another project supported by Hubbard was initiation of a recycling program this year, in cooperation with Bay St. Louis and the county.

Hubbard said the people were ready and willing to begin a program, and with future federal and state restrictions on reduction in solid waste, the need is inevitable.

Finally, Hubbard reported his desire to see the renovation and community use of the Waveland Civic Center, presently closed by order of state and county fire marshals for electrical and structural deterioration.

Funding problems have delayed action on renovation, and according to Hubbard, the completed project may be later than 1993.

"It is going to take a lot of money to renovate that building," he commented. "Hopefully this year we will at least be able to begin considering the cost, and plan for the expense."

Ward 1 Alderman Barbara Rappold was unavailable for comment due to illness, and attempts to reach Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman were unsuccessful.

ON PATROL

FRAUD

A Casino Magic gaming table employee was arrested Tuesday for false pretense concerning his ability to purchase company stocks at a lower than market price, Sheriff's Department Investigator Matt Karl reported.

Karl said an estimated $65,000 was received by James F. Campanale, 38, 5510 Golf Club Drive, Diamondhead from various people who he misled into thinking he could purchase Casino Magic stocks at a savings.

He stated Campanale is incarcerated in the Hancock County Justice Facility on a $20,000 bond.

Campanale has been charged with two counts of false pretense which, according to Karl, are felony counts.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Congratulations are in order for Brett Favre upon being named as one of the three quarterbacks for the NFC to appear in the PRO Bowl.

As most of you know, Brett was a standout quarterback in Hancock County at Hancock North Central in his high school days. This was followed by his guiding the University of Southern Mississippi to some of the best seasons in recent years.

I covered several high school football games when Brett was the Hancock quarterback and never once dreamed he would become a leading quarterback in the professional ranks.

Starting at the high school level, there are thousands and thousands of quarterbacks and this number takes a big drop when one moves up to the college and university ranks.

Then the number drops to under 100 in the professional ranks. The odds of becoming a professional quarterback are probably the same as winning a lottery.

Brett is the quarterback of the Green Bay Packers. It is ironic that I know Bill Hilliker, who was the quarterback of the franchise team when it moved to Green Bay many years ago.

Hilliker did not play football for Green Bay, as he was also playing professional basketball and put all of his efforts into the round ball game.

The reason he stuck with basketball was that the pay at that time was much more.

The pay for both professional football and basketball is very good nowadays.

I know Brett's parents Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Favre are very proud of their son, as are his relatives and many friends here in Hancock County.

This is Brett's second year in the PROs and he could become a legend in football circles.

I am hoping we will be viewing him many years leading the Pack.

Congratulations again, Brett.

If you haven't already, don't forget to bring your Christmas tree to the Hancock County Civic Center, Longfellow Road, on or before Saturday, so it can be recycled.

There is a roped off area to leave the Christmas trees (without ornaments and tinsel).

On Saturday volunteers will be on hand to give you a sapling, if you would like.

The recycling program is a joint venture by many including the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Beautification Committee. The trees will be chipped into mulch to be used throughout the county on beautification projects.

New Year's Eve is the time when many folks celebrate, and some have a tendency to drink a bit too much.

Free transportation is being offered by Louis and Mertie Hearty, recently licensed cab operators starting at 7 p.m. on Dec. 31 through 7 a.m. on New Year's Day.

The stipulation is that they need a ride and it is for someone going home.

Those needing transportation on New Year's Eve can call 467-1260, or call the Bay St. Louis Police, Waveland Police or the Hancock County sheriff's office.

Remember, please do not drink and drive.

I hope each and everyone will have a very safe and happy New Year.

Lobbying law reform a must for state

By Dick Molpus
Secretary of State

These are perilous times for those of us who call Mississippi our home.

The year 2000 is barely seven years away, and we have come to the crossroads to consider which way we travel into that new century.

Our choices are clear. We have growing problems in providing quality public schools, expanding our economic base, and dealing with rising crime. And the list goes on.

We are idling at the crossroads, and frankly, I don't see significant improvements unless we change the way we do business in Jackson.

The bottom line is: Our state government is not competitive with our sister southern states. It is impossible to make bold changes quickly, and we are beginning to see the rapid loss of our middle class to move innovative, progressive Sunbelt states.

In those areas the fastest-growing jobs are for highly-skilled, well-paid workers. Between now and 1996, Mississippi's fastest-growing jobs are projected to be for fast-food workers.

In the past 10 years, Mississippi has experienced an increase in her poorest citizens. During the same decade, South Carolina and North Carolina actually reduced the number of their poor.

I am frustrated. When I came into public service some 13 years ago, I thought we could really make life here better rapidly—by changing a few faces among our elected officials. Unfortunately, I was wrong.

The substantial majority of legislative and executive elected officials are good and decent public servants. But I have seen too many bright leaders with new ideas realize that creativity is rarely encouraged and often punished. Then, they leave disheartened. Still others have given up and joined the ranks as protectors of the status quo. Only those of strongest of conviction survive year after year, but they are often outnumbered.

How do we shake up this system and focus on what really matters?

One sweeping way is to change the very structure of the way business is done at the Capitol.

This change is called Lobbying Law Reform. This proposal would do a few simple things;

- Clearly define who is a lobbyist and what lobbying is; and

- Require complete reporting of what is spent and on which public official it is spent.

Only those people paid to be lobbyists or who spend over $200 per year on public officials would be required to register.

We do not propose to outlaw lobbying. Most lobbyists are hardworking people who represent groups that want officials to understand their points of view. They have a right to practice their trade.

But the facts are clear: In the past three years, more than $8 million has been spent to influence Mississippi's government. Citizens had only their voices.

This year, lobbyists spent $386,000 to entertain officials at the Capitol. The average person wrote a letter.

Lobbyists were 340-strong. The Average Mississippian went to work every day.

Who was heard?

Whose concerns were addressed?

This flawed system has put a few well-connected lobbyists in the front-row seats. Those front-row lobbyists not only can put the brakes on new ideas, but they can commandeer the process so that only narrow interests are debated while the issues of schools, jobs, and rising crime are pushed aside—ignored as out state drifts aimlessly toward a Third World economy.

Lobbying Law Reform is simple. It says: The people have a right to know who is spending what on whom.

It says: Close the loopholes. Report every dime lobbyists spend on all public officials.

Last year this proposal, co-authored by Representatives Jimmy Tyrone and Ken Stribling, passed 122-0 in the Mississippi House of Representatives. It was killed in a Senate subcommittee.

The lobbyists who want this bill dead will try to kill it once again in a Senate subcommittee. Those fighting lobbyist reform don't want a floor vote for obvious reasons.

I am asking you to join the battle by contacting your legislators so that all our voices may be heard equally at the State Capitol. Let's spend our creative energies on improving the quality of life for all our people, not just a few.

Lobbying law reform—it's our key to being heard again.

The New Year's challenges are on us

The dizzying pace of 1992 is finally coming to an end.

The claims and promises of the presidential campaign, among others, have been made, and we are waiting to see if they will be fulfilled.

The conflicts of Bosnia-Herzegovina and Somalia, among others less publicized, continue to come into our living rooms each night on the network news.

The conflict here at home, in our cities and suburbs, against crime and drugs constantly remind us of the challenges ahead of us.

That is what 1993 is sure to offer to us—challenges.

Challenges in our families, our government, our society and our world. How we respond to those challenges—most of which will be new variations on old themes—will determine the direction of our culture for years to come.

In the next few days many of us will be making our resolutions for the new year, most of which last about as long as a block of ice in a parking lot on a July afternoon. However, in the coming year, there are a couple of resolutions we can all make together that might make our daily lives just a little easier.

Number One: "Don't bother just to be better than your contemporaries or predecessors. Try to be better than yourself." This comes from our own William Faulkner.

Number Two: "Always do right. That will gratify some of the people and astonish the rest." From another great Southerner, Mark Twain.

The new year is on us, with its challenges and promise and hope. Let's do our best to make it a good one.

Locations of Hancock Convenience Centers

Hancock County operates five manned Convenience Centers for county residents for disposal purposes.

Convenience Centers are located at Pearlington, Highway 604; Standard, C.O. Road off Hwy. 603; South Barn, Lower Bay Road, Lakeshore, across from post office; Washington/Chapman Road; and Central Maintenance Facility, Highway 43 off Hwy. 603.

Heavy debris, such as refrigerators, furniture and construction materials and rubbish is accepted only at the Pearlington and Standard county land fill.

All household garbage must be placed in the compactors only.

The Standard Land Fill is open daily from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m., while hours for other locations are 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. All locations are closed Thanksgiving and Christmas Day.

It is emphasized that none of the centers or land fills will accept tires, paint cans or hazardous waste or materials.

The general public is reminded that dumpsters adjacent to local businesses are paid for by the respective occupants and these are not for public use.

Molpus: Lobbyists' spending up 73%

Lobbyists spent a record amount—$4.2 million—to influence state government during 1992, said Secretary of State Dick Molpus.

Last year, reported expenses were $2.4 million. Total spending for 1992 increased 73 percent over 1991, and entertainment expenses almost doubled.

Entertainment expenses (food, beverages, receptions, recreation, lodging, etc.) were reported at $386,629. Of that amount $10,771 was itemized according to which public official it went.

Lobbyists reported that the other $375,858 was spent in amounts less than $25 per occasion, which exempts those lobbyists from reporting on whom or where entertainment dollars were spent.

Molpus vowed to continue his fight for full disclosure of lobbying expenses. "I will be back asking the 1993 Legislature to require what every citizen is entitled to know—on whom this money is being spent."

An effort by Molpus and legislative allies to reform lobbyists laws was killed in the 1992 legislative session after passage in the House. A Senate committee refused to allow the bill to come to a floor vote.

"The average person has no idea where this money is going," Molpus said. "They feel as if some special interests have a large voice than theirs and they have good reason for those concerns."

"The opponents of lobbyist reform said that lobbyists had little influence and that the public would only be confused by more reporting. They also fought us by saying that new forms would solve the disclosure problem. As we predicted, they were wrong on both counts—spending by special interests has increased dramatically, and the public only knows where less than 3 percent of the total spent on entertainment went. We must close the $25 per-occasion loophole that makes the current lobbyist law meaningless."

State law requires lobbyists and their employers to register and report expenses annually with the Secretary of State. This year, the 339 lobbyists and 223 employers listed $2.8 million in salaries and fees and $666,982 in overhead.

Molpus also noted his staff will continue to analyze the reports and will provide additional information as it becomes available.

IN AND AROUND DIAMONDHEAD

By Margaret Williamson

The Canasta Club of Diamondhead is inviting any women who have ever played canasta — or who want to give the game a try — to join the club at the Diamondhead Community Center Thursday, Jan. 7 at 1 p.m., and every Thursday at 1 p.m. thereafter. They encourage and welcome anyone to come join the fun.

DIAMONDHEAD YOUTH ORGANIZATION

The first meeting of a new Diamondhead youth organization was November 10. Officers elected were Ken Talley, president; Roberta Lottes, vice president; Patti Dungan, secretary; and Terri Thompson, treasurer. Bylaws were accepted and many committees were formed to help promote parks and playgrounds, a swim team, softball, baseball and other activities for all Diamondhead youths.

Comments or suggestions are welcome, and may be sent to Diamondhead Youth, 443 Yacht Club Drive, Suite 109, Diamondhead, MS 39525.

The next meeting of this worthwhile group will be January 5, 7 p.m., at the Community Center. Show your support — be there!

ACADEMY NEWS

Diamondhead Academy is looking for new students for the second semester. For more information, call 255-1789.

The children, after having much Christmas cheer and a happy holiday, will start back with their reading, writing and arithmetic January 4, starting 1993 well by studying hard.

That "almost finished" auditorium will be such a welcome addition to this fine learning facility.

PERFORMING ARTS

DPA's 1993 season offers a year of the finest in cultural entertainment with a special new attraction.

Performance admission is offered at three levels for your convenience: individual program ticket, $12.50 — $62.50 for five shows; season ticket, $50 for all five shows, including season additions (a 20 percent discount off the individual ticket price); sponsor, $500 — two season tickets, including season additions, and recognition in the 1993 program. The sponsor category is tax-deductible as the law allows.

Contact Carol Noyak at 255-6042 for information on tickets or DPA. No tickets will be sold at the door of any performance.

VOICES NEEDED

The Diamondhead Performing Arts Society is forming a community concert chorus, which will be called the Bay Area Chorale.

The first performance will be Handel's "Messiah," accompanied by the Jefferson Symphony Orchestra with Dennis Assaf conducting. This is an ecumenical endeavor and open to all Bay area, Diamondhead and Coast residents from senior high school to senior citizen.

Joining this group has many advantages for those persons wishing to become familiar with a major choral work, to learn good voice techniques, and to sing with a symphony, thereby bringing the communities together as one.

Soloist auditions will be conducted by Mr. Assaf beginning January 9, 11 a.m., at the Diamondhead Baptist Church. Rehearsals will be held 2-4 p.m. on consecutive Saturdays from January 9 through March 20 at the church. Mark these important dates on your calendar and come sing, sing, SING!

NEWCOMERS CLUB INVITES MEMBERS

The Diamondhead Newcomers remind all residents, especially new ones, that they are welcome to join the club and participate in monthly activities. It's a great way to meet your neighbors. Call Pat Outlaw at 255-5569 for information.

The members are looking forward to "letting the good times roll" and "passin' a good time" at their Mardi Gras luncheon Friday, Jan. 15, at the Diamondhead Yacht Club. There will be an open bar starting at 11:30 a.m.; lunch starts at noon.

Those Mardi Gras colors are purple, gold and green, so come dressed in your most "outrageous" ones. Don't forget; there will be a prize for the best Mardi Gras hat, too.

Reservations are a must, so send your check for $11 now to Evelyn Kibler at 6525 Kousla Drive, Diamondhead, MS 39525.

Come on, y'all!

COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION

Community Association president Phil Garberg says that the next meeting on February 5 will be an important one. There will be an election of officers.

Also, a former-POA attorney and one representing a property owner during alleged covenant violation legislation, will be invited to express their thoughts and private opinions.

Support your community's endeavors such as PAL, People Against Litter, by joining the DCA for only $10 a year.

SPCA

Clean out those closets of all your unused party clothes and donate them to the Diamondhead SPCA to help them help our animal friends. For pickup, call Jean Keen at 255-9826.

"P.A.W." — Pets Are Wonderful. Remember, spay or neuter.

FUN FOR LITTLE ONES

It started December 2, and goes every Wednesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Roller Express Skate Center opened its doors to moms and preschoolers to skate, learn to skate or just play. The Diamondhead Play Group is another active organization that really appreciates this free opportunity.

Call Helen R. Moore at 255-9528 for information, or to make suggestions or comments, which she gladly accepts.

MARDI GRAS JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Both Mardi Gras krewes in Diamondhead are gearing up for a fantastic "Fat Tuesday" celebration. Parties are planned honoring the new kings and queens and their nearest and dearest. Coronation ceremonies with balls following promise to be so exciting for those members involved.

And the parade! The land krewe's parade will be Saturday, Feb. 20 at 2 p.m., and has as its theme "Circus." Call Chris Arnos at 255-7297 for an entry form.

Entry forms are necessary for all entries such as golf carts, autos, floats, individuals, animals, etc.

Lineup starts at the Community Center. Participants are asked to be in place at 1:30 p.m. sharp.

"Throw me something, mister."

NEW YEAR AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

Hope you have made your reservations for the club's two New Year parties on the 31st offering great food and music of your choice: "Satin Sound" in the Coral Room with big band style music, and "Soundsation" for the rock-and-rollers in the Terrace Room.

All this, in lovely renovated surroundings, sounds like a great way to start '93.

MY THOUGHTS

Treasure each new day — its beauty, its joy, its promise, so that every new tomorrow begins with a happy memory.

Have a great and wonderful, happy and healthy new year.

Tips On Writing EFFECTIVE Classified Ads

◆ STICK TO THE FACTS
Prospective buyers need to know details, like the condition of the item for sale, the size, brand name, color, and any other relevant information that would help them make a decision.

◆ BE HONEST
Aside from being unethical, exaggerating or misinforming potential buyers won't help you make a sale, and may only serve to lose a prospective buyers' trust. Even if they come to look at what you have to sell, they'll be less likely to buy the item or trust you once they see they've been misled.

◆ SPELL IT OUT
Abbreviations are not easily understood by many people and may even confuse a reader. It only takes them a second to pass over an ad because it doesn't seem clear, why let it be yours because you abbreviated a description?

◆ THE BOTTOM LINE
State the price. You'll save yourself the hassle of having to answer calls from prospects who, upon learning the price, are not really interested. Price is the first thing they'll look for when reading your ad, and when prospects know the price, you'll know you have a serious buyer on the line.

◆ BE THERE
List the best hours to call and make sure you're at home. If you don't list a specific time, you could be flooded with calls any time of the day or night. And when you're not at home to take calls, most likely, they won't call back.

UNITED WAY PROFILES

Catholic Social and Community Services Inc.

EDITORS NOTE: The United Way of South Mississippi assists many charitable organizations along the Gulf Coast. The following local group receives UW funding to continue its services to the public:

Catholic Social and Community Services, Inc. serves the people of South Mississippi of all ages, races and creeds and is sponsored by the Catholic Diocese of Biloxi.

Catholic Social Services is a multi-service agency providing a large variety of services for people in need. These services are as varied as family counseling to emergency assistance to immigration and refugee resettlement services, to name just a few. As a United Way agency, Catholic Social Services designates a select number of services for United Way support.

While doing so, the agency continues to appreciate the support and gratitude it receives from the public-at-large for all its services. Perhaps the best use of the agency by the public-at-large is its availability in being called upon in that critical initial moment of help (374-8316, 452-2745, or 769-8090), no matter what the need.

As a United Way agency, Catholic Social Services provides unplanned pregnancy counseling by having a place where caring people who will listen and who will help are available every day. A confidential telephone call (374-8391) makes it easy to establish contact.

Counseling is provided for the birthmother and her family as they engage in practical and informed decision-making: pregnancy, pre-natal care, housing and placement options.

Counseling is always offered to the alleged father and his family. He is made aware of his rights and is encouraged to actively participate in the weekly counseling session.

If the decision is made to parent the child, counseling will be provided to help the birthparent prepare for the baby. The counselor will also offer to teach parenting skills and provide material, when necessary, as well as provide ongoing support. Catholic Social Services helps hundreds of pregnant teenagers through its maternity services each year.

If the option of adoption is chosen, the counselor will offer the family a chance to be active in selecting an adoptive family from non-identifying profiles. The counselor will also prepare the family for dealing with the pain following relinquishment.

The agency recognizes and supports the fact that the final decision rests with the birthparents and, regardless of the decision made, counseling is continued until the birthparent feels he/she is no longer in need of the agency's services.

The adoption program is the natural outgrowth of the Unplanned Pregnancy Program. As a United Way agency, Catholic Social Services provides adoption services in your county. The agency is licensed by the State of Mississippi and is the only private adoption agency in South Mississippi to provide adoption services.

Caring and professionally trained staff offer the full scope of adoptive services, bringing loving parents and children together. The Adoption Program served approximately 50 families last year.

The service in greatest demand from Catholic Social Services as a United Way agency is the agency's Family Counseling Services. The counseling service is provided in a unique holistic manner on a sliding scale fee basis, which makes it very accessible to many people who would have nowhere else to turn for help. Skills training in group settings—such as parenting sessions, divorce recovery, etc.—are an important part of the agency's counseling and reach services. A specially trained counselor is available to implement the Rainbows Program. This program is especially designed for children who have experienced the loss of a parent through death or divorce, and has been implemented in several schools in the area through the assistance of Catholic Social Services. Hundreds of families, which in turn includes thousands of individuals, are helped through the agency's counseling services each year.

Perhaps the service that Catholic Social Services is most immediately associated with as a United Way agency is its Emergency Assistance Services (432-0045). The agency offers direct cash assistance in dealing with the usual emergencies of food, utilities and rent for thousands of people each year. A significant part of the agency's work in this area is in networking with and supporting other local emergency assistance agencies and their volunteers, participating in a major way with the annual F.E.M.A. emergency food and shelter program in many South Mississippi counties. The food bank program, called Twelve Baskets (388-6881), is the fastest growing program with the agency's emergency assistance services. Over 100 local food pantries and feeding programs draw from this one-of-a-kind food bank serving the area.

Over a million pounds of food has been warehoused and distributed last year. The agency anticipates a major growth in this service next year, and for years to come.

Through highlighting this select number of services, Catholic Social Services is proud to be identified as a member agency of the United Way and encourages the community to support the United Way to the best of their ability. It is because of your support through the United Way that Catholic Social Services is able to continue with these good works.

A present from the Sound

Tom and Patti Fullilove (center and at right, with camera) of Shreveport, La., received an unexpected Christmas present from the Mississippi Sound December 21: a 35-pound, 44-inch redfish, caught while using a flounder head as bait. The couple had walked to the Garfield Ladner pier from the home on the beach where they were staying, and had been fishing for about an hour when Mr. Fullilove hooked his prize. It took about 10 minutes and some assistance from the pier rangers to haul in the fish. Gathered around the happy couple are (left) pier rangers Linda Villere and Donna Weathersby, Cindy Weathersby, and fellow fishers Joseph Moleski, Steven and Gene Taylor, and Demitrius Tsanos. Mrs. Fullilove said the couple will ship their catch to friends in Idaho, then join them for a fish dinner in January. (Echo staff photo by Traci Bonney)

Emergency Relief Fund

EDITORS NOTE: The following local group receives funding from the United Way of South Mississippi to continue its services to the public:

The Hancock County Emergency Relief Fund was organized to help local and transient people who do not qualify for assistance by other services. The center operates under the direction of local clergy who administer the funds on a rotating basis each month.

Assistance is given with food, clothing and medical prescriptions, with eligibility determined according to need.

Applicants are screened before help is given. The goal of the center is to help as many individuals as possible through its limited funds.

NASA technology

Bay Resident Galle helps businesses get competitive edge

Special to the Echo

In these changing economic times, businesses find themselves facing stiff national and international competition to increase productivity and profit margins.

Through his job at NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center, Bay St. Louis resident Rick Galle and other professionals at SSC are helping area businesses get a competitive edge by aiding them in utilizing NASA technology.

Eight years ago Galle was working as a systems analyst at Eglin Air Force Base in Ft. Walton Beach, Fla., when he got a call to come to work for NASA at Stennis Space Center.

"I just couldn't pass up an opportunity to work for such a worthwhile organization as NASA and in the process get a chance to return to my home state of Mississippi," reminisced Galle.

Today Galle is manager of the NASA Technology Transfer program at SSC. In this role, he has responsibility for working with the private business sector as well as with the state governments of Mississippi and Louisiana to find appropriate uses for NASA technology that will have widespread public benefit.

"There are numerous technologies in the NASA laboratories that can be used to explore new markets and eventually be used to manufacture products in Mississippi," said Galle.

One such technology is the Geographic Information System (GIS). This system uses satellite technology to take a computerized, in-depth look at a specific area on Earth.

GIS produces detailed maps that provide easily retrievable data on roads, railroads, population, property boundaries, topography, soils, drainage basins and utility and telephone lines.

Information gained from these maps could be used for wetland assessment, urban planning and agricultural yields. The data can also be used by the state to provide detailed land maps to businesses who want to relocate to Mississippi.

Currently, Galle is helping a south Louisiana oil services device that will help them regain a greater share of the market.

"The applications for this technology are limitless. Eventually, we would like to provide company compete on a global scale using NASA technology. For years the company had been a leader in developing a drilling device that allows oil workers to analyze the surface being drilled. This lead was diminished when a Japanese firm developed a similar device that used computer technology.

They came to Stennis Space Center and asked if there was anything within the NASA technology base that could help them compete with this new product," said Galle.

Galle and the Technology Transfer Office at SSC were quick to respond as the company is now working to apply GIS technology to a new drilling device that will help them regain a greater share of the market.

To accomplish this task, Galle is heavily involved in working with the Mississippi community college system in getting information out about GIS technology.

"The community colleges around the state are a perfect system to work through because of their strong ties to industry," said Galle.

Through the lead school, Pearl River Community College, NASA contacts the other community colleges in the state and they in turn contact local companies in their respective areas. The companies can then decide whom to send to SSC for classes and how the new technology may be applied in their particular industry.

The initiative includes free general introduction classes to GIS, free in-house training at Stennis Space Center, and remote site training where the GIS equipment is taken to individual schools.

"We are very excited about this program. Last year we provided general training sessions to over 200 people and our new classes are filling up quickly," said Galle.

NASA is also working with Pearl River Community College to develop a curriculum in Geographic Information Systems making it the first community college in the nation to have such courses.

Commenting on the satisfaction he gets when an industry takes NASA technology and uses it to their benefit, Galle said, "It makes me feel great. However, I also feel the obligation to continue to work with that particular industry in advancing the technology as time goes by."

When not working on technology transfer, Galle is busy with the monumental task of recruiting judges for the International Science Fair that will occur May 9-15 at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi.

Galle is the committee chairman responsible for recruiting approximately 1,200 academic judges from throughout the South for the science fair.

Originally from Biloxi, Galle has lived in Bay St. Louis for the past eight years. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees in computer science from the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg.

"I really enjoy living in Hancock County because the people are so friendly and it has a small-town atmosphere. Its proximity to the Gulf of Mexico also allows ample time for fishing," said Galle.

Plan New Year's celebration with traditional black-eyed peas

New Year's Day means a warm crackling fireplace, friends, armchair quarterbacks and—for Southerners—a meal that includes black-eyed peas, often seasoned with hog jowl. It's a down-South tradition that eating black-eyed peas on New Year's Day assures the consumer of good luck and prosperity throughout the coming year. Lest that bit of folklore get lost in today's health-conscious society, a University of Mississippi nutrition instructor and dietitian says go ahead and celebrate.

"Once a year, it won't hurt to use a little hog jowl or bacon to season your peas," advises Dr. Kathy Knight.

Eating too much fat may mean the bad luck of gaining weight and creating a cholesterol problem, which can both translate into health problems.

Peas and lean pork are both good food, but healthy eating means limiting fat to 30 percent or less of the total caloric intake, warned the assistant professor of home economics. "You can't do that and eat a lot of meat, and you surely can't do it and eat much fat meat at all."

"Peas, on the other hand, are just a good, healthy and economical food to include in your diet any time of the year," she said. Unlike meat, however, peas and other plant foods are not complete proteins. "Vegetarians should eat combinations of plant foods to fill in the gap, like peas with rice."

Milk, eggs, meat and meat products (except gelatin) are complete proteins that supply all of the essential amino acids.

"I would not steer anyone completely away from pork unless there's a health problem like heart disease or cholesterol. It's a good food, and the leaner the better," said the nutrition expert.

"In fact, for example, chicken not skinned can contain just as much fat and cholesterol as pork; skinning the chicken and trimming the fat make the difference."

other vegetables with herbs—like garlic, basil and thyme—or use other vegetables for seasoning, including tomatoes, onions and celery.

"Instead of saying you're going to lose weight in 1993, make a New Year's resolution to eat healthily and get the proper exercise, and the weight is probably going to take bacon, suggests Dr. Knight.

NOTICE TO HOMEOWNERS

Dear Homeowner:

The recently enacted legislation which allowed a one-time filing of Homestead Exemption has been extended another year.

You are not required to file a homestead application for 1993, unless there has been a change in your filing status: became 65, disabled, divorced, widowed, separated, etc., or if you need to add a parcel or parcels, you must file another application.

Should you have a question regarding the status of your exemption, or should you need assistance in this regard, please call the office. Filing dates for Homestead Exemption are January 1st through April 1st.

Those who are new to the community, and eligible for Homestead Exemption, should come to the Assessor's Office after January 1st and before April 1st to file the exemption form.

For the taxpayer's convenience, the Assessor/Tax Collector Offices will be open a half day on the following dates in January: Jan. 9th, Jan. 16th, Jan. 23rd and Jan. 30th. The telephone number is 467-5727.

The final meeting of 1992 for Learning Ladies was combined with their Christmas luncheon at Waveland Resort Inn. Compliments were offered to Barbara Blackburn, banquet director, for the beautiful Christmas setting for the luncheon on Dec. 15. Charlotte Edwards, outgoing president, called the meeting to order. She welcomed guests and Darlene Underwood, extension home economist.

Edwards thanked all the Learning Ladies for the participation and cooperation in making the club a success in 1992.

New officers for 1993 installed included Beverly Vaughn, vice president; Inez Olivier, secretary, and Reba Echezal, treasurer.

"In 1993 we will try a new and interesting concept for conducting the monthly meetings," said Edwards. We meet on the third Tuesday of the month.

Ladies may contact the extension office at 467-5456 for information on joining the club. Everyone is welcome.

Learning Ladies wishes all a Merry Christmas and a safe, peaceful New Year.

Lena Mae Oustalet played the piano while Roslyn Weathers led the singing of gospel, hymns, patriotic and 'oldies but goodies'.

While 'Happy Birthday' was sung, the celebrants were handed their gifts. The dining room was decorated with Christmas ornaments.

Refreshments were served by the staff.

Diamondhead: A community on the grow

BY TRACI BONNEY
"Growth" is the key word to describe 1992 in Diamondhead, according to community and business leaders there.

Diamondhead Property Owners Association general manager Paul Montjoy said the community's population at last count was 4,300, and that 1,600 houses and 500 condominiums and townhomes are located there.

HOUSING STARTS

Montjoy said the POA issued permits for 147 houses, and saw the sale of more than 600 lots from one owner to another.

"The houses are getting bigger, too," he commented. "The average house size increased by 200 to 300 square feet per house. That means we're getting more families here in the child-bearing years.

"Some have children; others are building in anticipation of starting their families."

Jon Ritten Sr. of Coast Delta Realty, a Diamondhead-based real estate agency, concurred with Montjoy's assessment.

"It's been a very good year for Diamondhead. Housing starts were more than they've been in any one year since 1986."

"We've seen a lot more young people in Diamondhead, too, especially since the school opened. The type of resident coming in now is not exclusively retirement age. Diamondhead is anything but a retirement community."

Cal Rogers, principal of the Diamondhead

Academy, which includes grades pre-school through six, confirmed Ritten's comments.

"Last year our enrollment was 76 students, and we had combined classes," she said. "This year we're looking at having 96 students; we've added a teacher, and almost all our grade levels are in self-contained classes instead of combined ones."

Ritten said that in addition to seeing people of all age groups move into Diamondhead, he has seen people from a number of geographical locations come to the community.

"Our market is from everywhere. We don't focus our advertising on one particular part of the country. We sold property to people from 22 states in 1992."

Montjoy said one of the highlights of 1992 from the property ownership viewpoint was the implementation of a lot consolidation program. The program allows a property owner to combine date multiple adjoining lots and pay a single assessment, saving the property owner tax dollars.

INCORPORATION

Montjoy and Ritten, as well as other civic leaders, agree that Diamondhead must eventually address the question of whether or not to become an incorporated town.

Montjoy stated, "Incorporation is something that has to be actively discussed."

Depot, sidewalk top list of B

BY TRACI BONNEY

According to Mayor Eddie Favre, the bulk of the city's plans for 1993 include continuing and completing projects begun in 1992.

However, top priority is implementing a sidewalk construction plan for Dunbar Avenue and other areas that currently provide no place for people to get off the street when walking, he said.

The lack of sidewalks, especially in the Dunbar Avenue area where North Bay Elementary School students walk each day, has been a concern for city officials and local residents.

Hancock economic

BY TRACI BONNEY

Economic development was the area of greatest accomplishment for the board of supervisors in 1992, according to supervisors Robert Peterson and Howard Lizana.

Peterson, District 1 supervisor and a veteran of the board, said the opening of Casino Magic and Calgon Carbon Corp. both benefitted the county because the two companies brought additional jobs to a depressed economy.

In addition, the certification of Stennis Air Park for passenger service opened an opportunity for Casino Magic to spend its charter flight dollars locally.

Lizana, District 3 supervisor and a newcomer to the board, said the opening of the county convenience centers and the removal of open-top garbage dumpsters was a good economic move for the county. It eliminated some of the exorbitant

Thomas Clarke

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Fate took hold of Clarke's life when one day Mrs. Maurice Goldstein of New Orleans entered the Beach Boulevard restaurant where Clarke worked as a waiter.

Goldstein took an interest in Clarke, and after questioning his employer about his character, she offered him a chance to continue his education.

Clarke would live with the Goldsteins and attend Xavier University, all expenses paid.

According to Clarke, Maurice Goldstein was one of the founders of Dillard University and a noted architect.

More importantly to Clarke, he was a man who greatly influenced the young man from Bay St. Louis through his earnest interest.

"They treated me like they would their own children," Clarke elaborated. "They let me stay at their house and they supported me throughout my shortcomings.

"Mr. Goldstein was never too tired or too busy to inquire about my education."

"He taught me how to take a problem, like a financial problem, and look at it from every angle until a solution was found."

"He would demonstrate the potential for solving problems that were impossible."

"Once, only once, did I hear him curse. We were fishing and his catch got off the line; he said, 'Damn.'"

"Yes, a woman choosing to eat lunch in Bay St. Louis one day, made me a lawyer."

From Xavier University Clarke went to Lincoln University School of Law in St. Louis.

"There were no law schools for Blacks in the south," Clarke reported. "Remember, this was 1940."

He added, the state of Mis-
